

ARIN Inducts Four New Members to its Fellows Academy

TORONTO – April 30, 2021 - The Association for Radiologic and Imaging Nursing (ARIN) is pleased to announce this year's inductees into the Academy of ARIN. FAARIN, the ARIN fellow designation, recognizes the radiology nurse's longstanding, significant contributions to the association and to the specialty of radiology and imaging nursing in the areas of leadership, service and education. The new inductees were honored at the virtual ARIN Annual Meeting on April 12, 2021.

As part of this year's Class of Fellows, ARIN was pleased to bestow Honorary Fellowships to the following for their contributions to the profession of radiologic nursing:

Charlotte Godwin, RN, FAARIN

Joanna Po, MSN, RN-BC, CNS, FAARIN

Along with its two Honorary Fellows, this year's Class of Fellows also includes:

Sharon Lehmann, MS, APRN, CNS, CRN, FAARIN

Valerie Aarne Grossman, MALS, BSN, RN, NE-BC, FAEN, FAARIN

Fellows Committee Chairperson Karen Green commented, "Through their service to both the Association and our profession, this year's Fellows Academy inductees have contributed greatly to the growth and future of ARIN and the field of Radiologic Nursing. On behalf of the Fellows Committee, I congratulate them all for their achievements and look forward to having them be an active part of the Academy moving forward."

She added, "The Committee is proud to celebrate two members with honorary membership. Charlotte Godwin, 1981-1983 ARNA President, was granted the honor posthumously in recognition of her vision, support, and lifetime of service to patients and nurses in the radiology setting. Joanna Po, 1985-1986 ARNA President, also a founding member, continues to support our profession with her constant reminder of the 'voice' nurses bring to caring for patients and their families. We will be forever proud to celebrate their legacies as integral members of the Academy.

The Association for Radiologic and Imaging Nursing is the premier organization for radiologic and imaging nurses around the world. The membership consists of radiology nurse practitioners, clinical nurse specialists, and clinical nurses, nurse managers, nurse educators, and nurse researchers in all imaging modalities in both inpatient and outpatient settings. Radiology nurses care for patients across the lifespan. Founded in 1981, ARIN is celebrating its 40th anniversary of educating and supporting nurses in providing the highest quality of patient care in the imaging setting. Applications for the 2022 class of Fellows will be opening in the late fall of 2021.
